Early Morning Rescue Made In Strong Current

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies reported two more near drownings in Lake Michigan at a hot water outlet of a power plant near Port Sheldon early Wednesday when four Grand Haven residents decided to go swimming in what has been termed as the "hot spot."

The call came in at 1:20 a.m. from Mrs. Ames Brooks, 7977 Margaret, after she and her husband heard calls for help from the area of the "hot spot."

Dan Fry, 23, was caught in the strong current and was unable to get back to shore. His male companion, Dan Mathewson, 21, attempted to assist him, but due to the heavy current was just able to reach shore himself, deputies said.

Two girls with the men, Crystal Anthony, 18, and Nancy Hecksel, 18, both also of Grand Haven, had been sitting on the beach, officers reported, and started shouting for help.

Mr. Brooks turned on his outside floodlights, launched a canoe and paddled out to rescue Fry while his wife, Jo Anne Brooks who had assisted in a similar rescue some 12 hours earlier, notified deputies.

The swimmers told deputies they had heard "it was nice swimming at the hot spot," and crawled under a fence to gain access to the lake.

Pry told deputies he was wading in the outlet channel area in water up to his knees when he stepped off a drop-off and was carried out into Lake Michigan by the strong current.

He said he called for help because he was unable to swim against the current.

Pry further stated to officers that he would not have been able to swim back to shore and was thankful that the Brooks heard him and his companions cry for help. He felt he would have drowned if not assisted by the boat.

Sgt. Edgar Hall who heads the sheriff's department marine division said this is a "very, very dangerous area to be swimming in."

He described: "The current heads directly west and then makes a sharp bend in a northern direction . . . it's very strong and quite obvious people can drown out there in that area."

"I didn't realize it," Hall continued, "until I and Dep. Ross Moser tried swimming out there. People walk out for about 75 feet and hit the drop-off area and panic and by that time it's too late to retrieve them."

Hall said, "Persons should remember to go with the current and not fight it until it subsides. People fight the current, then become exhausted and drown."

Hall said buoys have been put out in the past but were broken apart by the strong current, excessive amount of water and heavy seas.

Now, new plans are being made to replace the buoys and mark the area, he reported.

Joint City-County Sewer Discussion Set Tuesday

The Ottawa County Board of Commissioners has accepted the offer of the city of Holland to meet together to discuss sewer treatment processes, and a meeting has been scheduled at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the West Heritage room of Holland Hospital.

This announcement was made by City Manager William L. Bopf at a regular meeting of City Council Wednesday night.

In fact, he interrupted Mayor Nelson Bosman who had reached that point near the end of the agenda for any communications from the audience. There were approximately 30 persons in the audience, the greater share of them seemingly concerned with water pollution.

After Bopf's announcement, the mayor again asked for audience communications and there were none. The meeting adjourned shortly thereafter exactly at 8:30 p.m.

Council originally had expected to discuss developments in its sewer treatment expansion program after the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners took action June 23 asking the Federal Water Quality Administration in Chicago to withhold temporarily federal grants for Holland's program, pending a county feasibility study on the spray irrigation concept currently under study by Bauer Engineering Co. The city was prepared to install secondary treatment and phosphorus removal at the present treatment plant.

In requesting the meeting, local leaders pointed to the city's traditional role of cooperating in the best interests of its citizens and neighbors, and reaffirmed its long-standing policy to explore all possible avenues of area-wide cooperation.

Lakeshore Fire Burns 40 Acres

Fire believed to have been started from a beach party burned 40 acres of grass and heavy timber in the area of Stanton St. and Lakeshore Dr. south of Grand Haven, Monday afternoon.

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies who received the call at 3:30 p.m. said brisk winds fanned the flames and caused it to spread rapidly north from where it started in front of the Fred Randall residence at 9255 Lakeshore Dr., West Olive.

Deputies reported the Randall home was in danger of being burned; however, the flames in the area were out there before they reached the residence.

No buildings nor dwellings were destroyed or damaged in the fire, deputies said.

The fire was discovered by two boys who were walking their dogs along the beach. They told deputies they noticed the dog smelling smoke and a short time later, they located the fire and turned the alarm in.

Two units from the Conservation Department were at the scene including the department's bulldozer which was used to plow a fire break around the perimeter of flames.

Also at the scene were three units from the Port Sheldon Township Fire Department and firemen from Holland Township No. 2 and Grand Haven township.

Firemen who were at the scene for three hours estimated flames shot at least 100 feet in the air.

The sheriff's department is continuing its investigation to determine the exact cause of the fire.

Holland Man Heads New Plan Group

Thomas De Pree of Holland, one of the city's five representatives on the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners, has been elected chairman of the newly organized West Michigan Shoreline Regional Planning Commission. The new commission was formed last week by the boards of commissioners of Ottawa and Muskegon counties.

Other officers are Michael Kobza, Muskegon, vice chairman, and Merton Vandermolen of Fruitport, secretary - treasurer. R. T. Dittmer, head of the Muskegon Metropolitan Planning Department, was designated executive secretary.

Other members are F. Charles Raap of Muskegon, William L. Kennedy of Allendale, Frank Schmidt of Coopersville and James Elliott of Muskegon.

Oceana county also has voted to join the commission, and the new group is hopeful that Allegan county also will become affiliated. More officers and representatives may be added in that case.

"I look forward not only to the continuation of cooperation between Ottawa and Muskegon counties," De Pree said, "but also to the expansion of this cooperation among additional shoreline counties. We have strongly tied common interests and we stand to gain much from these efforts in the 70's."

Kennedy, chairman of the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners and a member of the new commission, added, "Opinion surveys conducted among shoreline communities strongly indicate public demand for cooperative governmental action and for sound development and management of our excellent natural resources. This organization is designed to meet these opportunities."

Frank Schmidt of Coopersville expressed concern "that shoreline counties effectively represent themselves before state and federal agencies, since state and federal governments are continually making decisions that affect our shoreline and interlands community. We should be prepared to join cooperatively along the shoreline in representing ourselves regarding these decisions."

The new commission stems from cooperative efforts between Ottawa and Muskegon county commissions in attempts to resolve water treatment problems. Muskegon county was given the go-ahead signal last week by the Michigan Resources Commission to proceed with plans for the spray irrigation treatment of waste water which would serve a number of municipalities in Muskegon area.

NEW DIRECTORS IN CHARGE—Jack Elliott (left) gives the key of the Community Action House to Ralph Kickert, who will begin work as director. Elliott has served as director for a year while completing studies at Western Theological Seminary. Kickert, a 1968 seminary graduate, served as director of the Good Samaritan Center, and will be working with Higher Horizons and HAZAH in family assistance programs.

Community Action House Programs Expanding

At the regular meeting of the board of Community Action House this week, Ralph Kickert was named director of the program. He will succeed Jack Elliott who has served for one year while completing studies at Western Seminary and who now will pursue his ministry in a church setting.

Director Kickert comes to the Action House from a year of experience as director of "Good Samaritan Center" where activities often mesh with those of other community agencies so that his background gives him familiarity with his new work. He is a 1968 graduate of Western Seminary, lives in Holland, and his wife is a Lincoln School teacher.

In addition to directing Action House, located at 166 East Eighth St., Kickert will be working with the Higher Horizons program, assisting its director, Bruce Stuijk, in the areas of family assistance and screening potential participants.

Kickert says Action House will continue to concentrate on finding direct help for families and individuals who have crucial housing, furniture, or job needs. Work with Roger MacLeod of HAZAH to place low-income families in position to become home owners will be expanding. As a coordinator to social services in the county, Kickert will assist the newly-formed Inter - Agency Migrant Council. All activities are recorded and supported by some 50 volunteers, largely from AAUW, who are receptionists at the Community Action House.

The most recent project, instituted by the volunteers with Mrs. Kenneth Armstrong's chairmanship, is Youth Employment Service.

Kickert notes that 50 young people have been placed in part-time or full time work for the summer, and that more jobs are needed. He urges members of the community to call their requests for workers to do the yard, or odd jobs around the home, so that more of the boys and girls in Project YES may be served. The project is funded by contributions from the three high school student councils of the area. West Ottawa has sent its support since the announcement of funds was made earlier.

19 Stolen Bike Complaints Cleared; Licensing Urged

An alert Holland policeman spotted what he thought was a stolen bike last Monday and started the chain of events that resulted in the clearing up of 19 stolen bike reports, police said today.

Officers noted that only five bikes were recovered plus the parts of some others. It was speculated the remaining bicycle frames and parts were thrown in the river or destroyed or disposed of by some other means.

One person, David Morales Calenchi, 20, of 130 Charles Dr., and four other juvenile boys were picked up in connection with the larcenies.

Calenchi was specifically charged with taking a $60 bike from behind the Holland Bowling Lanes, 215 Central Ave., on June 12. He pleaded guilty to the charge when arraigned in Holland District Court and was released to return for sentencing on July 23.

Police said they have received a total of 92 stolen bike complaints since the first of the year, total value of which is estimated at $2,400.

Only 29 of the bikes have been recovered.

The stolen bikes are usually stripped down, police reported, with the chain, seat, handlebars and wheels removed or switched. The converted bikes are then sold as well as some of the separate parts themselves.

Police claim it's difficult to locate a stolen bike because they are not all licensed and all serial numbers are not recorded.

They urge persons to get licenses for their bikes because the department will then automatically have a record of the serial number.

While licenses can be obtained at the police department at any time, officers are planning a special schedule which will be announced later.

Under a pilot program, licenses can also be obtained at some downtown stores at the time a new bike is purchased, but only when a new bike is bought, police said.

Ottawa county sheriff's deputies reported a truck driver, Jimmy Leroy Summers, 35, of Benton Harbor, escaped serious injury when the two- and a half ton truck he was driving rolled over on its side on US-31 300 feet north of Eighth St. at 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Firemen from Holland Township No. 2 were called to the scene to stand by.

Summers told deputies he was approaching the traffic light at the intersection and applied the brakes to avoid colliding with a car, heading west on Eighth St., which ran a red light.

Summers said the truck slid through the intersection and went out of control on the wet pavement and rolled over on its side.

THE GOOSE AND THE GOLDEN EGGS

Rep. Farnsworth recently sent a circular to the voters of this area expressing some ideas that will merit some reflection and attention. They are ideas that other commentators on the American scene are making with greater frequency and volume.

The burden of Rep. Farnsworth's circular was that in this country we spend a disproportionate amount of time complaining about our problems and difficulties and too little reflecting on the advantages which our society, culture, and political system afford us.

We are greatly exercised over the poverty in the midst of plenty, but we seldom reflect on the fact that what we call poverty in the absolute sense is really in a comparative sense almost unbelievable wealth.

We are disturbed over injustices without realizing that justice in this country has reached the highest point known to history. We are aggrieved by the inequalities that exist in our system, but we seldom stop to think that in this country quality is more nearly realized than ever or anywhere before.

This is not to say that our problems should be left unsolved or our inequities unresolved. But it is to say that we should now and then count our blessings. We can too easily get it to the frame of mind in which we are willing to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs because we think the eggs are too small. It is easy enough to substitute real anarchy for partial injustice. But where there is no order there is no justice at all.

Now and then we must make a comparative estimate to see how we measure up, and then we may find that we have made considerable progress in the age-long struggle toward the most good for the most people.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday, July 5
Genesis in Christian Perspective
Genesis 1:1; John 1:1-3;
Romans 1:16-12; Col. 1:15-17
By C. P. Dame

During the next three months we will study Genesis. We will look at the theological subjects suggested by Genesis from the New Testament viewpoint and apply them to our times. The first lesson teaches the truth that God is the Creator and Sovereign of this universe.

I. God created this vast universe. The lesson text is from four books of the Bible, one from the Old Testament, three from the New. The name "Genesis" means beginnings. The book is the first of the five called Pentateuch, which were written by Moses. The book tells about several beginnings. How many can you name? It is divided in two parts, the first eleven chapters record the history of the world up to the time of Abraham and the second part, beginning with chapter twelve tells about Abraham and his descendants.

The Bible does not argue for the existence of God, it assumes He is and teaches that He created the universe and controls it. Back of this marvelous universe is a wise, intelligent and omnipotent God who created man in His own image and placed him on this earth to direct it for Him.

II. Christ reveals God. As we reveal ourselves through our words, so God made Himself known through Jesus Christ who is the Word of God. Jesus is the self-revelation of God the Father. Christianity teaches that God is triune — God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit. Jesus told the critical Jews that He was before Abraham. Christ was at creation.

III. God reveals Himself in nature. "For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness who hold the truth in unrighteousness," so wrote Paul in Romans. Nature speaks of the wisdom and power of God. Man, instead of worshipping the Creator of the universe began to worship the creature rather than the Creator and idolatry resulted. Nature reveals a number of facts about God but does not make known salvation and that is man's greatest need. Man lost his knowledge of God because he ignored that which God gave him.

The last portion of Scripture is from Paul's epistle to the Colossians, which epistle was written to combat angel worship. The epistle tells about the person and work of Jesus who was before everything else and was God's agent in creation. Note that "all things were created by Him and for Him"—that is Christ and that "by Him all things consist"—that is He holds all things together. When we bear in mind that Jesus is God's agent in creation we understand better the power Jesus exerted over nature and His miracles.

City Offers To Meet With County

City officials Wednesday offered to meet with the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners at the latter's earliest convenience to discuss Holland's proposed secondary treatment system, the proposed spray irrigation system, and way in which either, or a combination of these systems, may serve the goal of reducing pollution in the Lake Macatawa Watershed basin.

The offer, extended by Mayor Nelson Bosman and Henry S. Maentz, president of the Board of Public Works, came after a joint meeting of the two bodies Tuesday.

It concerns action taken by the county board last week in requesting the Federal Water Quality Administration in Chicago to withhold temporarily federal grants for Holland's sewer treatment improvements, pending a county feasibility study of the spray irrigation concept by Bauer Engineering Co. and consultants.

In requesting the meeting with county officials, local leaders pointed to Holland's traditional role of cooperation and endeavor in seeking a course of action in the best interest of its citizens and neighbors and reaffirmed its long-standing policy to explore all possible avenues of area-wide cooperation.

Examples of this cooperation are evident in Holland's contracts with the city of Zeeland for water and library services; sewer, water and electrical services to areas immediately adjacent to the city; its recent discussions with Ottawa county for area water services and its renewed commitment in accepting the state and federal grants for the secondary treatment system, to consider all reasonable proposals to extend services to areas beyond its city limits, according to the Bosman-Maentz statement.

Subjects listed for discussion at a county-city meeting inside:

1. Financing of either system.
2. Possible sewage lagoon and irrigation location.
3. Construction time tables.
4. Pollution abatement goals.
5. State and federal requirements and grant levels.

In addition to offering to meet with the county board, city officials also have scheduled a meeting for early next week with Ralph Purdy, executive secretary of the Michigan Water Resources Commission, to discuss the deadline now facing the city of Holland and the problems that have evolved as a result of the county's action.

Meanwhile, Thomas De Pree of Holland, chairman of the Ottawa Board of Commissioners' planning committee, said word was received today from U.S. Rep. Guy Vander Jagt's office stating that Russell Train, chairman of the President's Council on Environmental Quality, in his annual report to President Nixon July 15, will be calling for more demonstration programs on disposal of sewage on land.

County officials are mainly concerned with comprehensive river basin-wide programs for pollution abatement and resultant waste water treatment plants which fit in with metropolitan and regional plans in order to be eligible for federal aid.

County Action Hits Sparks Over City's Sewage Plans

Action taken by the Ottawa County Board of Commissioners in Grand Haven Tuesday asking federal agencies to withhold temporarily matching funds for Holland city's proposed sewage treatment plant, has struck more than a few sparks among city officials.

At a conference of Mayor Nelson Bosman, City Manager William L. Bopf and representatives of the Board of Public Works this morning, Bopf reviewed developments in Holland's three-year study for Holland's program to abate pollution by adding secondary treatment and phosphate removal at the local treatment plant.

Early steps required approval from regional planners, in this case the Ottawa County Road Commission which handles water and sewage studies in the county. Following approval by this group, approval was obtained from the Department of Natural Resources of Michigan and the Federal Water Quality Administration, resulting in Council action June 3 accepting the offer a state grant of $1,311,000 and a federal grant of $131,100.

Ottawa county representatives subsequently appealed to the Federal Water Quality Administration in Chicago for a delay of federal funds pending a county-wide report on the feasibility of what has become known as the spray irrigation concept in which sewage is treated in a series of lagoons and its effluent used to fertilize golf courses,

TWO SAVE THREE—Bud Lawson, 30, of 163 Manley St., is seen in the right foreground as Mrs. Jo Anne Brooks of 7977 Margaret (background) tells Ottawa County Sheriff's Officers Ross Moser and Donald Pikaart of her part in saving a mother and her two daughters caught in the Lake Michigan current in front of the Brooks' cottage shortly before noon Tuesday. Lawson jumped from his fishing boat and pulled Mrs. Bertha Driesenga from the water and held her while Mrs. Brooks took the two girls, Debbie, 14, and Kathy, 12, to shore in a boat and returned for Lawson and Mrs. Driesenga.

Three Are Saved In Swift Waters

Quick action on the part of a fisherman and a cottage owner saved the lives of a mother and her two daughters caught in the current of Lake Michigan near the Port Sheldon channel shortly before noon Tuesday.

Mrs. Bertha Driesenga, 35, of route 2, Holland, and her daughters Debbie, 14, and Kathy, 12, were swimming in Lake Michigan in front of the James Brooks cottage at 7977 Margaret when they hit a dropoff and were swept by the strong current.

The three tried to cling to a rubber raft they had with them when Mrs. Driesenga apparently couldn't hang on, lost consciousness and was swept under, according to Ottawa county sheriff's deputies.

It was their cries for help that attracted Bud Lawson, 30, of 163 Manley St., who was fishing in his boat nearby, and Mrs. Jo Anne Brooks who was at her cottage.

According to deputies, Lawson swam from his boat to the scene (a distance of about 75 yards) to pull Mrs. Driesenga from the water as Mrs. Brooks took a boat to the trouble spot.

Lawson held Mrs. Driesenga out of the water while Mrs. Brooks took the daughters to shore and returned. Mrs. Driesenga was placed in the boat and back resuscitation was applied by Mrs. Brooks.

Mrs. Driesenga was unconscious when Det. Lee Posma arrived at the scene and he applied mouth to mouth resuscitation. She was taken to Holland Hospital by ambulance and released after treatment.

Her two daughters did not require hospital treatment.

Sheriff's deputies pinpointed the location to 75 yards north of the Port Sheldon channel and 100 yards off shore.

Deputy Ross Moser, who works with the department's marine division, said the spot is a dangerous one and many near drownings have been reported there.

"There's a dropoff," Moser

First Nighters Acclaim 'Spofford' at Red Barn

At a gala opening of Saugatuck's Red Barn Theatre season Saturday night, veteran actor Bruce Hall, sporting a well trimmed beard, added several more years in makeup to become the star of "Spofford," a delightful story of Connecticut village life with its feuds between the natives and the commuters.

In this James Dyas production, Hall as the 64-year-old philosopher-sage served as narrator and as actor in a highly entertaining mishmash reminiscent of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," and was on stage almost 100 per cent of the time.

While there is no doubt Hall was the star of the show, Dorothy Lee Tompkins ran a close second as the phlegmatic Mrs. Puncck whose dry smart-dumb lines often topped those of the infinitely more intelligent Spofford. And some very funny situations in which Mrs. Puncck was not at all phlegmatic produced the biggest laughs of the Herman Shumlin play based on a portion of Peter de Vries' "Reuben, Reuben."

The Dyas production brought out the best in the sharply delineated characters in this well paced play, based on incidents in the Connecticut town in which the leading man moved into the circle of the commuters described, "and if you hit it, the water's going to carry you right out because of the strong current. Today's occurrence wasn't an uncommon one because of the strong current in that area. It happens around five times a week."

Lawson also told deputies he saved a 20-year-old unidentified man Sunday night under the same circumstances but it was not reported. Lawson told deputies the young swimmer hit the dropoff and was taken under by the strong current.

through his versatile talents as gardener, bartender and babysitter, only to be "locked out" as rumors of a book he was considering "shook up" the newcomers.

A subplot concerned Spofford's granddaughter played by Kathy Dyas, home after a year at Ohio University, in a romance with a chap from the other side of the tracks played by Jon Freeman.

This twist provided an excellent role for Sandy Hemple of Holland as the chap's sophisticated mother, sporting an enviable coat of tan in a bikini scene. Her double standards were not lost on Spofford whose sly observations of human nature provided the running philosophy of the play.

This intriguing study of human nature also provided a just-right role for veteran actor Bob Bonevich as a poet with a roving eye for a pretty face of any age.

Others in the cast were Marie Austin and Roger Thurgalun as Spofford's son and daughter-in-law, Lois Carlson as a sophisticated neighbor, and Lisa Wener, Barbara Jones, Emmet Morland, Jon Martindale, Bob Sikkenga and Karen Eifert.

Effective scenery and lighting were designed by Geoffrey D. Fishburn who started as an apprentice in 1961.

"Spofford" runs all week at the Red Barn located just off I-196 at the north entrance to Saugatuck. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. with a Wednesday matinee at 2:30 p.m.

The musical "Mame" with Anne Benson in title role opens July 7 and runs through July 18.

The Maccabees were a family of Jewish leaders of the second century B.C. Their story is told in the two Apocryphal books of the Maccabees.

Two Cited After 3-Vehicle Mishap

Two persons were cited by Holland police as the result of a three-vehicle mishap that occurred in front of 26 East Sixth St. at 8:40 a.m. Saturday.

Police reported Gary Ray Brandt, 16, of 494 Butternut Dr., was driving his motorcycle east on Sixth St. when a car driven by Amparo Ramirez, 16, of 26 East Sixth St., pulled out of the driveway causing the two to collide.

After the impact, police said, the Ramirez auto kept turning and struck a parked vehicle owned by Donald Por of 428 Hazel Ave.

Brandt, who sought his own treatment for minor injuries, was cited for having no insurance or registration on person and Ramirez was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way, police said.

Improper Backing

Mary Alice Van Zanten, 18, of 813 Central Ave., was cited by Holland police for improper backing after the car she was backing around to head in another direction struck the left side of a parked car on 16th St., 40 feet west of Central Ave., at 4:39 p.m. Thursday.

Police Special John Piers

Familiar Traffic Officer Resigns

After 20 years of watching over traffic and pedestrians, police special John Piers took his last walk to and from the corner he has manned during Friday night shopping in downtown Holland.

Piers resigned Friday from the post and will wheel the familiar "No Left" turn sign from the Eighth St. and River Ave. intersection for the last time.

The standard itself has spelled a change for Piers.

"At first we had a two man team when turns were allowed at the corner," Piers said. "Elimination of left turns did away with the second man. Now we just keep traffic moving at the corner."

Since 1950, Friday night traffic at the corner has tripled, Piers claims, and he said drivers have to be more alert to avoid because of the increased traffic.

Piers began his police association in 1942 as a police special. Specials are duly sworn officers not working a full shift but with police authority to carry out their assigned duties in a designated work area.

In 1945 Piers became a full time officer, a position he held until 1950 when he returned to his special status.

Married and the father of two children, Piers is a pressman at The Sentinel and despite his 6-foot-4 height appears to have the alleged patience of the Biblical Job.

During his full time police service, Piers took part in a pig chase in 1950 that drew the attention of cameramen and reporters. A pig reportedly fell from a truck at 14th St. and River Ave. on a warm summer day. Police and volunteers gave chase for 35 minutes before the porker was rounded up at 20th St. off Michigan Ave.

An article in The Sentinel reported:

"By that time the young porker was somewhat exhausted but there was still plenty of spirit. But when they put him into the hobo cell (at the police station) and wetted him down with water from a hose he looked downright appreciative."

In 1948, Piers recalled a newsreel cameraman filming the Tulip Festival asked him to chase a youngster through some tulips. Piers said he declined.

In April, 1956, as a police special, Piers took part in a crackdown on Sunday night traffic disturbances along Eighth St. He said about 100 warnings were issued to motorists generally for defective mufflers, horn blowing, speeding and crossing the centerline.

Piers said he worked in every decoration day parade since 1942 and recalls that the parades in those days were a little shorter than the ones today.

City Studies Impact of Sewer Delay

City leaders continued to study the impact of county action in seeking delays in the city's proposed programs for improving its sewage treatment plant by adding secondary treatment and removing at least 80 per cent of the phosphates, the item that produces algae.

The Ottawa County Board of Commissioners acted last Tuesday to request federal agencies to temporarily withhold matching funds for the improvement program, slated to be in operation by December, 1972. This involves $1,311,000 in state funds and $131,100 in federal funds representing 55 per cent of the estimated costs. Holland residents voted last February to bond the city for $1,230,000 for improving sewage treatment.

Mrs. Stephen Sanger, a member of the Holland Garden Club, appeared before the Michigan Water Resources Commission Wednesday in Muskegon, speaking on behalf of the Environmental study group of the club which feels that the spray irrigation concept is far superior to the proposed secondary treatment and phosphate removal.

She said, "The city of Holland is at this point facing what I believe to be a needless move in the name of bettering our Lake Macatawa watershed. At this time, though I admit it with shame, we have only a primary sewage treatment system in our community so well known for its cleanliness."

Mrs. Sanger outlined the spray irrigation (living filter) concept and said, "We know that surveillance of water quality management in today's ecologically oriented world will require tertiary treatment for Holland in the near future. So why not take this step now?"

"I know you are concerned that Holland do something now! And I'm grateful that you are pressing for action; however, it is now evident that the Ottawa county feasibility study from Bauer Engineering will be ready by July 15, costs studies by Aug. 15, and the final report Sept. 15," she said.

Ralph Purdy, executive secretary of the Water Resources Commission, called Holland's current plans "a timely answer to the pollution problem" and said the system could be capable of being linked to a county-wide system later. He said there is a need for prompt action against pollution in the Holland area.

John Bogg, an engineer for the Department of Public Health, said Holland is nearly ready to begin work on its secondary treatment plant and the spray system might lead to a one-year delay. Several persons believe a change in programs would lead to a much longer delay.

City Manager William L. Bopf said by accepting the offer of state and federal grants in improving its waste water treatment plant, Holland is well aware of its commitment to make the sewer treatment service available to other areas, and the plant is designed with such enlarged services in mind.

It is expected City Council will be discussing developments at its regular meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Justin Leenheer, pianist, accompanied Miss Sally Bulthuis, the soloist.

The bride wore a full-length, long-sleeved empire gown of chantilly lace with a matching lace train. A yellow, white and aqua flower headpiece held her elbow-length veil of imported illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with aqua and yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Jerry Elenbaas, the bride's sister, was matron of honor and the only attendant. Her A-line gown of aqua was complemented by flowers in her hair and a bouquet of white carnations with yellow ribbon loops.

Remind Residents Of Firearms Law

Area residents, especially youngsters, were reminded today that it is against the city law to shoot firearms in the city.

Safety Education Officer Russell Hopkins said this included BB guns that are fired in the city limits. Such acts are dangerous and hazardous, he added. "The specific ordinance reads: 'No firearms shall be discharged within the city limits.'"

Hopkins pointed out that such incidents are misdemeanors which carry a penalty of up to 90 days in jail and up to $100 fine.

Officer Hopkins clarified that there are exceptions during the hunting season when some shooting is allowed in specified areas under certain conditions.

Hopkins also pointed out that slingshots are categorized as dangerous weapons and cannot be carried concealed on a person.

The reminders were made in light of complaints concerning birds being shot at.
